

Moving from LastPass Teams to LastPass Business

Streamline user management, simplify employee logins, and cover all credential-based accounts not secured by SSO with a scalable password management solution.

Manual password management leaves organizations of all sizes vulnerable

Small businesses face unique challenges when it comes to cyber security and password management. With fewer resources, limited budgets, and smaller teams wearing multiple hats, introducing new solutions can feel like an added burden for your employees and IT teams alike. That's why most businesses 'start small' – we get it! – and why LastPass Teams is an excellent starting point for businesses aiming to manage passwords, enhance security, and boost employee productivity.

But when your business starts to grow or evolve, password complexity often follows. You need the flexibility to scale your password management solution with ease, and that's where LastPass Business comes in. Designed for organizations of all sizes, LastPass Business includes all Teams features, plus an unlimited number of users and group user management. It ups the ante with 100+ security policies, advanced reporting, and directory integrations to make access easier and security even tighter.

LastPass Business is capable of next-level customization, delivering the added sophistication that a larger business requires without needing teams to deploy a brand-new tool. Choose from a library of pre-integrated Single Sign-On (SSO) apps – or add your own – and try layering Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA) for additional security. Plus, employees love the Families-as-a-Benefit perk that allows them to use LastPass in their personal lives – and share it with up to 6 others as well!

You need a simple, secure way to handle passwords, so you can put the real focus on your business.

LastPass Business is a secure, scalable solution

As you know, LastPass is an integral tool for simply and securely managing credentials at your organization. Plus, it helps protect your business by keeping bad actors away from your important data and accounts. And as your business evolves, LastPass meets you where you are.

When you upgrade to LastPass Business, you can utilize LastPass to consolidate your tech stack or to fill access management gaps with native integrations for Microsoft Entra ID, Okta, and other IdPs and IAMs. With even more customizable policies, flexible privileges, and detailed reporting, organizations with many logins, applications, and increased security risks need efficient, scalable solutions to keep password management standardized across the company.

“Having to manually add users can be cumbersome, and as a one-man band, federated login [with Google Workspace] gives me more time to focus on bigger tasks. That’s a huge plus for me.”
